EZ HOLD & DISCS

The EZ Hold is a manual-assist compression device developed to aid the clinician in manual femoral pressure.

The device was designed and patented by an RN who sought to reduce hand fatigue and direct contact with bodily fluids. The ergonomic design of the EZ Hold permits the clinician to hold pressure comfortably with one hand while palpating the pulse with the other.

The EZ Hold is best used in conjunction with our line of Neptune Discs. These come in two styles and have the advantage of having a Neptune pad built into the disc, which speeds up hemostasis and reduces holding times.

Features

- Reduces hand fatigue
- Ergonomic design
- Cuts down on direct contact with bodily fluids
- Can be held comfortably with one hand
- Fits a wide variety of discs

PRESSURE DISCS

TZ Medical
Sparked by your ideas

TZ Medical's Femoral Pressure Discs are used as a hemostasis device with either our EZ Hold or compression clamp products. Our discs help to apply firm and even pressure on the access point to ensure hemostasis is achieved safely and effectively. Our discs come in a variety of shapes and sizes to accommodate all technician preferences and patient body types.

Femoral pressure discs ensure that just the right amount of pressure is applied to the access site when used in conjunction with our EZ hold device.

TZ Medical Neptune Discs use the power of calcium alginate to speed up hemostasis. The calcium alginate is sustainably harvested from seaweed and is an all-natural product.
